

Ten ways Star Wars fans should celebrate the new movie this week

By Jennifer Picht

Posted: Monday December 14 2015, 2:19pm

Attention Star Wars fans: The Force Awakens is coming to theaters on Friday! (Thanks, Captain Obvious.) But while you anxiously await the premiere and try to keep your arguments over midi-chlorian counts to a minimum, here's how you can distract yourself from the anticipation without undermining the suspense.

That's right—you don't have to travel to a galaxy far, far away to celebrate the most anticipated movie release since, er, The Hunger Games: Mockingjay- Part 2. There are plenty of events, exhibitions and thematically appropriate adult-beverages to try in NYC this week.

Chew(ie) on this

Choc O Pain Bakery & Cafe has transformed the look of their classic sourdough boules to fulfill your Star Wars fever dream. Pre-order a The Force Awakens loaf ASAP if you want to get your carb fix in time for the movie premiere. 157 First St, Hoboken, NJ; 530 Jersey Avenue, Jersey City, NJ; Large $8, small $5 (chocopainbakery.com). Pickup only.